PEN SCREEN PRINTING

Screen printing is not only suitable for labelling t-shirts or paper products. Our automatic machine is designed for fast and quality labelling large quantities of pens. The procedure itself is screen printing on the surface area of the pen. Its advantage is that a larger logo can be imprinted onto the surface of the pen than with classical pad printing. The logo's maximum width can be 4-4,5cm, and height is maximized in 90% of the pen's circumference.

TRANSFER PRINTING

This technology is using silkscreen technology for printing desired logo or picture on different special kinds of transfer papers. Then by high temperature the image is transferred to chosen printing position. Transfer technology is perfect solution for branding textile, natural or mixed fabric. Biggest advantage of this technology is possibility of precise printing of complicated images, the same time keeping the desired Pantone color. When you decide for this technology you can count on bright colors as well as good resistance to washing.

3D ENGRAVING

Our engraving machines have always been deploying the most advanced techniques in our workshop. The very showy 3D imagery is conquering more and more space as seen by our partners, but now we introduce the Ferrari of technology...

3D engraving as the most modern technology generates a laser focal point inside a cullet, creating micro-bubbles caused by explosions; ranging from one-two thousand to hundreds of thousands depending on the detail of the logo.

POWER:
120 000 points / minute

SCREEN PRINTING

This is the method for labelling textiles, plastic and paper products. Logos ranging from a few centimetres up to half a meter may be prepared by this method. The logo should be broken down into colours and applied to film and then clichés should be prepared. This film provides the basis for the screen. A light-sensitive material is applied to the fine-woven canvas screen, and the light is screened off by means of the silk screen. The area where the path of light caught the dark film remains washable by the silk screen and the paint is leaked onto the textile surface. All products are treated with high temperature to make sure the logo becomes durable.

TAMPON PRINTING

This is the method for labelling plastic, metal, wood and paper products. Small sized, high accuracy and high resolution prints can be made. The special advantage of tampon printing is that it isn't only used for flat surfaces. The logo should be broken down into colours and applied to film and then clichés should be prepared. Once the procedure is completed, a minimal hole is created on the cliché which is filled up with paint by the tampon machine and a soft rubber transfers the thin paint onto the labelling object.

EMBROIDERING

This procedure is for labelling textile products. As the first step, each logo must be programmed individually into the embroidery machine. The embroidery process creates the logo by individual colours, which is ultimately a permanent and exclusive appearance. In case of small sized logos, the accuracy is scarcely achievable, as well as the Pantone colours can only be approachable.

TATTOO

THE CERTIFICATED MASTER OF BRANDING

EXCELLENT SERVICE PROVIDER

Our workshop contains a total of 35 embroidery heads, which can label up to 200 products at the same time, depending on the size, the number of stitches it requires and how easily can the product be placed under the embroidery machine.

THE CERTIFICATED MASTER OF BRANDING

TAMPON PRINTING

This is the method for labelling plastic, metal, wood and paper products. Small sized, high accuracy and high resolution prints can be made. The special advantage of tampon printing is that it isn't only used for flat surfaces. The logo should be broken down into colours and applied to film and then clichés should be prepared. Once the procedure is completed, a minimal hole is created on the cliché which is filled up with paint by the tampon machine and a soft rubber transfers the thin paint onto the labelling object.

CERAMICS LABELLING

Mugs and glasses are labelled using high temperature ceramic and glass paint. The label gets onto the product similarly to transfer printing, and then burned in a furnace. It is difficult to provide exact Pantone colours with this procedure, since ceramic paint can not be mixed accurately.

SUBLIMATION TECHNOLOGY

The cornerstone of our company's success is based on the fast-growing technical innovations of our ongoing effort to keep up, as well as on broadening our offers. One of the most recent procedures is the so-called "Sublimation." In this method, we basically tear down virtually every wall in the paths of photo quality. In sublimation the logo on the surface is in high-resolution, displayed as a detailed-rich, bright and vivid coloured picture (5760 x 1440 dpi).

ENGRAVING

Today's most advanced labelling method is laser engraving. Here the logo's surface depth can be measured in a hundredth of a millimetre compared to the previous mechanical procedures. The surface of the product practically burns in the process to develop the logo. Even accurate with small logos.

EPOXY COATED LOGOS

Poly Drop is a two-component polyurethane resin used to coat different press products in the graphics industry. As a result, the treated surface will have a glossy, lacquered effect, as well as gaining a three-dimensional look from the 2 mm thick epoxy layer. In the process the resin evenly spreads out on the surface of the printed label creating a crystalline, shiny effect. The drying time is 1 day. Subsequently, the Poly Drop interface becomes very smooth, and slippery. It is resistant to UV rays and other environmental influences and damages. Poly Drop technology-treated stickers do not become yellow, while being very flexible, and prevent the fading of the prints – provides a long lifespan for the logo.

FEATURES:

- UV-resistant resin coated stickers
- Protects the surface from harmful sunrays, prints do not yellow / fade
- A unique design
- Printing on a variety of mediums (either silver, gold, pearl and phosphorescent materials can also be used to create epoxy stickers)
- Excellent sticker adhesion

EMBROIDERING

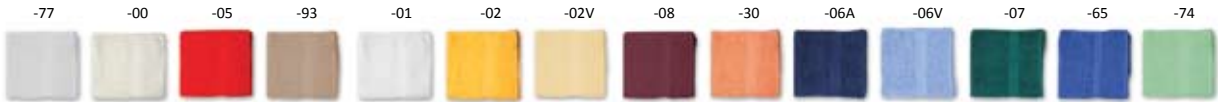

This procedure is for labelling textile products. As the first step, each logo must be programmed individually into the embroidery machine. The embroidery process creates the logo by individual colours, which is ultimately a permanent and exclusive appearance. In case of small sized logos, the accuracy is scarcely achievable, as well as the Pantone colours can only be approachable.

TATTOO

EXCELLENT SERVICE PROVIDER

Our workshop contains a total of 35 embroidery heads, which can label up to 200 products at the same time, depending on the size, the number of stitches it requires and how easily can the product be placed under the embroidery machine.

(281. page)
Laser engraving for wooden, glass, leather and plastic items.

3D ENGRAVING

(82. page)
In case of 3D engraving, there are tiny little bubbles created in the middle of the glass-block made by a micro-explosion in the focus of the laser. These bubbles create the pattern. Their numbers can run from one- or two thousand to hundred thousands.

(91. page)
Automatic printer, used for branding larger logos.

TRANSFER PRINTING

(71., 197. pages)
Transfer printing is a kind of screen printing, which is primarily used to apply an image to a curved, uneven or crude surface. The image or logo is firstly printed on a special silicone paper and transferred on the products' surface by heat treatment.

EMBROIDERING

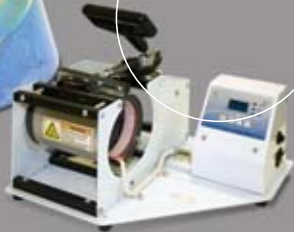

(167., 315. pages)
It is used for marking textile items.

By the help of this new technology we can break down all the barriers and a very high quality became realizable. The print on the surface has high resolution which appears bright and rich in colours (5760x1440 DPI). Basically used for special mugs and special handled surfaces.

(253. page)

Mugs and glasses can be branded with poked ceramic or glass paint. The items are burned at 850°C. Exact pantone colour can not be assured.

(287. page)
 Poly Drop is a two-component polyurethane resin used to coat different press products in the graphics industry. As a result, the treated surface will have a glossy, lacquered effect, as well as gaining a three-dimensional look from the 2 mm thick epoxy layer with crystalline, shiny effect.

TAMPON PRINTING

(129., 235. pages)

It is used for branding of smaller plastic items.

PEN SCREEN PRINTING

(108. page)

It is used for plastic pens with flat barell and for printing to 1 position with 1 colour.

LARGE FORMAT DIGITAL PRINTING

(68. page)

It is used for printing of posters and vinyl sticker for items which can not be branded by other technology.
